Quote of the Month

"A work of art which did not begin in emotion is not art."
~ Paul Cezanne

President's Message

Happy New Year and the best of health and happiness to all of you. Over the past 2 months I have been very ill and I have had a lot of time to think about all the blessings we sometimes past by or take for granted. Little things are more important now. You deeply appreciate the warmth of our families and friends that come to your aid in times of need. You also love to look at sunsets and sunrises (if you can get up that early), the different formations of clouds, the power of a storm, the color in the trees, the gathering of people in the streets for special events and the views of the water from my deck. Diane has done a marvelous job taking care of me. I think she has submitted an application for her nursing license. I look forward to continued improvement in the New Year and pursuing more challenges in art and music. I also want to thank each and every one of you for your lovely, caring cards and notes and most of all, your heartfelt prayers. They sincerely helped me during this difficult time. I am looking forward to seeing you all in January 2013. Can anyone believe that it is 2013?

Mike Clayton

Storing and Using Masking Fluid

To keep your masking fluid from drying out, store your less-than-full bottles upside down so you don't get a film on the top of it.. The unused portion is not exposed to the air and air cannot get into the bottom of the container.

Don't shake a jar of masking fluid before you use it as this will create bubbles. If you paint with bubbly masking fluid, when the bubbles pop there'll be little spots where the masking fluid won't cover the paper and the paint will get in.

As your jar of masking fluid is used up there is more room for air in the jar. It's contact with this air that creates a film on top of the masking fluid. So as it is used up, find a smaller jar to replace the bigger one and the film will not gather as thickly on the top while not in use.

Central Market ~ We will need new art for Central Market on Jan. 16th (we will probably hang it the following weekend).

Tentative Shows ~

Regarding Hospice, we will probably just move the art that is already there to their new location sometime in January.

We will probably take down the Jak's exhibit in February. We still need to see if we can put up a new display there when the current one comes down.

Our Venue Committee continues to be busy trying to keep up with public requests to exhibit PAL's work...Want to join? It's Fun! Call Lisa Stowers for Info.

Stella is coming back! ~ Stella will be coming back for another workshop February 11. Contact Jan Lytle to sign up.

Art Humor

A thief in Paris planned to steal some paintings from the Louvre. After careful planning, he got past security, stole the paintings, and made it safely to his van. However, he was captured only two blocks away when his van ran out of gas. When asked how he could mastermind such a crime yet make such an obvious error, he replied, 'Monsieur, that is the reason I stole the paintings.'

I had no Monet

to buy Degas

to make the Van Gogh.

(I added this joke because I had nothing Toulouse.)
