March 2022

Pal Ponderings

At last, things are starting to turn around for us! The number of cases of coronavirus in our County have plummeted, and at midnight on March 11 the governor's mask mandate will be lifted. Hallelujah! That means that life will soon be back to some kind of normal and we can resume many of our former activities. It's been a long time since I've seen your faces!

Way back in the spring of 2020, we took down our art display at Central Market, and now at last we will hang our art again. We'll collect art on Wednesday, March 23, and hang the show on Saturday, March 26, at 9:00 am.

I think many people have been hanging back from participating in group events, and now we can feel more confident about being together in groups. There may be some people who will continue to wear masks, and there's no shame in that. All of us have our own comfort levels.

For me, I know I'll be very glad to leave the mask behind. I'm looking forward to seeing you all and increasing the number of PAL activities this year.

One Wednesday a Month Show and Tell

By Jill and Lynda

Please mark March 26, 2022 on your calendar. Yes, it is a Wednesday, our day to meet, greet, draw, paint and this week have a little education and entertainment!

For those of you who did some painting/drawing en plein air this past year, how about you bring one or two of those works with you and then tell the rest of us about your experience? Just a brief highlight. We will line them up against the front wall and midway through working on our own things, we'll take a break and enjoy your works.

Thanks so very much for participating in the one Wednesday a Month adventure. And we already have something lined up for April.

Below are photos of Jenny Ludwig demonstrating how she paints clouds from last months "One Wednesday..."

The City Hall staff needs an accurate inventory on file. So please report to Kati Diehl at the 3rd floor desk, or leave a note, with your name and the titles of the works involved. You may also email her: kdiehl@cityofpoulsbo.com.

The PAL show at the city hall is being changed the first week of August. Members brought in new paintings and paintings will be returned on Wednesday August 4.
